

RISE AND FALL OF GREEN CITY

CHAPTER 11 – 1993

The writer could not find minutes for the Green City Annual Meeting for the year 1993; however, many of the Green Citizens did attend as evidence by the photographs.

This depiction of a Green City Camper is very appropriate; however, I am not aware of anyone having room for a Barb-B-Q like the one shown as there was little room remaining on the transport vehicle once supplies (and beer) were allocated.

The band was present with Walter Demoskoff on the left, then,

Fred Chursinoff, Serge Plotnikoff and Moe Zibin. The

Mare, (Lorne Tamelin) is busy preparing his speech as Donna Arishenkoff is doing a "sound check."

The ex-Mare is taking advantage of his break by "cooling off" his pollical ambitions in Skillet Creek.

Dr. Probal (Mike Varabioff) continues his vigilance for any medical emergency that may occur unexpectedly. He may have obtained a supplementary position as Security Guard as that mallet appears to be very menacing and threatening.

Peace and quiet is the motto for this evening in Green City as Dr. Probal must be drinking that "stuff" he has been brewing for supplementary income.

The ladies showed off their ability performing a "Green City Dance".

___?___, KateVarabioff, Ann Demoskoff, Kathy Popoff, Violet Plotnikoff, Marilyn Verigin, Donna Arishenkoff, Ann Chursinoff, Ann Zibin, ___?___, Irene Tamelin, Natalie Voykin.

The ex-Mare inspecting the Trout that maybe the fishing objective in Skillet Creek. The logging bridge in the background is an appropriate perch for two local Green City residents to share opinions on local politics.

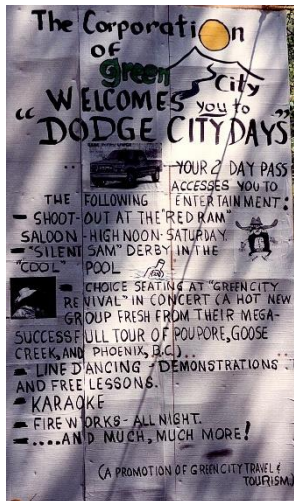

Fred Arishenkoff takes a break from his gig with the band and shares a dance with his partner Donna.

The dance floor space between the rocks and stumps necessitates a great deal of creativity in deciding who is leading and / or following.

Dodge City Days signage is the background for the Green City 1993 Green City Ladies. It has been a stressful day choosing what events in which to partake. Not sure how many Huckleberries were gathered.

They look like they are having a great time.

Moe and Ann show off their improvised Recreation Vehicle that provides transport, travel security and sleeping accommodations for two.

The incumbent Mayor, Lorne Tamelin, displays his "chain of office" along with a "Peace-Maker" as he brags to a local citizen about his ability?

The stresses of local politics maybe taking their toll on the Politicians.

The Citizens of Green City were confronted with a "road block" upon arriving at Green City. It seem like everybody is not sure the meaning of the sign. "Hawlowta (Clawb Rools to Get In) Confess to Condiseens Contract. Come across to Come Caross" Spelling is terrible but an advantage if you have some Russian knowledge. The protesters are Elmer Verigin on the left, Fred Chursinoff, Serge Poltnikoff, Violet Plotnikoff, Ann Zibin, Moe Zibin, Bill Zariloff, Walter Demoskoff, Ann Chursinoff, Lorne Tamelin.

Fred Arishenkoff presents the Green City Grammy Award to Moe Zibin to popular acclaim. As Dr. Probal stands by.

Dodge City Days signage advertising that suggests a fun-filled weekend. The shade of a nearby tree disguises some of the events that may require staying to the end to experience it all.

Tom and Noboko Hara were not adequately prepared for Dodge City Days as they thought it was a premier social event (which it was to Green City standards).

They had to reach into their wardrobes for local style of wear.

Tom adjusted to this new environment but totally misunderstood the size of trout that was available in the local creeks.

Well, a guys can make a mistake occasionally.

Tom and Noboko understood that Green City was searching for a new identity and were prepared to undertake a campaign to bring the Olympics to Green City using their past Olympic experience at Whistler.

Unfortunately, they were not able to get their proposal on the agenda, this year.

To add insult to injury, the Haras were informed by Noboko's friend Irene Tamelin about the Green City Ball and brought appropriate wear for the occasion. Alas, they had to readjust their plans as the dance floor did not have the recommended lubricate for "ballroom dancing"

